Lodestone Banking Announces the Addition of Jack Weigle as a Performance Analyst
- To assist in enabling banks to be more profitable -

JAMESVILLE, New York, Nov. 18, 2014 – Lodestone Banking a provider of specialized comprehensive revenue analysis for banks announces the addition of Jack Weigle to its performance analysis team.

Weigle will focus on analyzing and improving the financial performance of banking clients. Previously, Weigle has worked as a credit analyst with a community bank. He also worked as a staff accountant at a CPA firm in New York.

“Jack has been instrumental in supporting Lodestone’s efforts on many banking projects by providing research and quantifying data that is used to determine profitability,” said Shahin Clark, CEO of Lodestone Banking. “We are pleased to have him on board as a valuable resource to our forensic revenue analysis team.”

Weigle holds an MBA from the Whitman School of Management at Syracuse University. He also possesses a Bachelor’s degree in finance from State University of New York at Fredonia.

About Lodestone Banking

Founded in 1994, Jamesville, NY-based Lodestone Banking provides specialized comprehensive revenue analysis for banks that tracks down and captures missing revenues that are lost as a result of not maximizing a core processor’s capabilities or a lack of communication between a bank’s internal divisions.
